

Figure 4.1 Illustration of conventional computer architecture when used for a network system. Network interface hardware attaches to the computer's bus.