

Figure 8.1 The hardware architecture used with a software-based network system. The CPU handles all protocol processing tasks except for framing and onboard address recognition.